6 Board composition

6.1 General

The Board should be of an appropriate size and collectively have the skills, commitment and knowledge of the Company and the industry in which the Company operates to enable it to discharge its duties effectively and to add value.

6.2 Independence

The Board recognises the importance of the appropriate balance between independent and non-independent representation on the Board. Where practical, and consistent with the Company's stage of development, a majority of the Board should be comprised of independent directors, and the Chairman should ideally be an independent non-executive director. The Board will determine whether a director is independent in accordance with the guidelines set out in the Appendix to this Board Charter and will assess, at least on an annual basis, whether each of the non-executive directors is independent or not.

Directors who are deemed independent must advise the Board of any change to their circumstances that could bear upon their independence, at the earliest opportunity. Upon notice of such information, the Board will re-assess that Director's independence as soon as practicable, and any change to that Director's independence status will be notified to the market in a timely manner.

6.3 Outside directorships

A director should continually evaluate the number of boards on which they serve to ensure that the Company is given the time and attention to detail required for the director to properly exercise their powers and discharge their duties.

A non-executive Director should inform the Chairman of the Board and the Chairman of the Nomination Committee before accepting any other material directorship or position with a significant time commitment attached.

6.4 Review of Board composition

Board composition should be reviewed annually by the Board against the Company's Board skills matrix to ensure that the directors possess the mix of skills and diversity necessary to meet the requirements of the Company.

7 Chairman

Where practical, the Chairman should be an independent non-executive director.

The Chairman is responsible for leading the Board, facilitating the effective contribution of all directors and promoting constructive and respectful relations between directors and between the Board and management.

The Chairman is also responsible for:

- (a) setting the Board's agenda, in conjunction with the CEO and Company Secretary, and ensuring that adequate time is available for discussion of all agenda items, in particular strategic issues;
- (b) providing counsel to the CEO; and
- (c) arranging evaluation of the performance of the Board, individual directors and Board committees (where applicable).

Any other position which the Chairman may hold either inside or outside the Company should not hinder the effective performance of the Chairman in carrying out their role as Chairman of the Company.

8 Lead Independent Director

The role of the Lead Independent Director is to provide leadership to the independent directors, liaise with the CEO, on behalf of the independent directors and advise the board on matters where there may be an actual or perceived conflict of interest, such as chair/CEO performance evaluation.

The Lead Independent Director is elected by the independent directors.

9 Board processes

9.1 Board meetings

The Board must convene meetings with such frequency as is sufficient to appropriately discharge its responsibilities. Board meetings are held in accordance with the Company's constitution.

Board and committee papers should be provided to directors sufficiently far in advance of the scheduled meetings to permit adequate preparation.

9.2 Conflicts

A director must inform the Chairman as soon as the director is aware of any conflict or potential conflict of interest which that director may have in relation to any particular item of business. Unless decided otherwise by the other members of the Board, the director should be absent from discussion and decision on that matter. Directors must strictly observe and comply with the requirements of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) and the Company's constitution in relation to the conflicts.

9.3 Independent professional advice

If a director considers it necessary to obtain independent professional advice to properly discharge the responsibility of their office as a director then, provided the director first obtains approval for incurring such expense from the Chairman, the Company will pay the reasonable expenses associated with obtaining such advice.

Where it is the Chairman who is seeking the independent professional advice, the role of the Chairman to consider and provide approval as set out above should be carried out by the Board.

9.4 Continuing professional development

The Nomination Committee (or equivalent) reviews whether the directors as a group have the skills, knowledge and familiarity with the Company and its operating environment to fulfil their role on the Board (and on any relevant Board committees) and, where any gaps are identified, consider what training or development could be undertaken to fill those gaps. Requests by individual directors for approval of professional education courses may be made to the Chairman, or in the case of the Chairman, to the Lead Independent Director and, where a request is approved, the cost of the course will be met by the Company.

9.5 Non-executive directors

Non-executive directors are encouraged to meet without executive directors or other senior executives at times scheduled from time to time.

9.6 Board performance evaluation

The performance of the Board will be evaluated on an annual basis in accordance with the Company's Process for Performance Evaluations (as amended from time to time).

10 Board committees

The Board may from time to time establish committees to assist it in carrying out its responsibilities. For each committee, the Board should adopt a charter setting out the committee's composition, role, operations, responsibilities, authority and resources and any other relevant matter. The appointment of a chairman and members of the committee will be made by the Board.

The Board may also establish standing and ad hoc committees comprising members of management, as appropriate, to address particular matters and those committees will have responsibility to report directly to the Board.

11 Company Secretary

The Company Secretary is accountable directly to the Board, through the Chairman, on all matters to do with the proper functioning of the Board. The Company Secretary's role is to support the effectiveness of the Board and its committees. Each director should be able to communicate directly with the Company Secretary and vice versa.

The responsibilities of the Company Secretary include:

- (a) advising the Board and its committees on governance matters;
- (b) monitoring that Board and committee policy and procedures are followed;
- (c) coordinating the timely completion and despatch of board and committee papers;

- (d) ensuring that the business at board and committee meetings is accurately captured in the minutes; and
- (e) helping to organise and facilitate the induction and professional development of directors.

12 Review

This Board Charter will be reviewed annually, and updated as required.

Appendix to Board Charter

Policy and guidelines of relationships affecting independence

It is the Board's policy that in determining a director's independence, the Board considers the factors relevant to assessing the independence of a director as set out in Box 2.3 of the ASX Corporate Governance Council's Corporate Governance Principles and Recommendations (4th edition) as follows:

An independent director is a director who is free of any interest, position or relationship that might influence, or reasonably be perceived to influence, in a material respect his or her capacity to bring an independent judgment to bear on issues before the Board and to act in the best interests of the Company as a whole rather than in the interests of an individual security holder or other party.

Examples of interests, positions and relationships that might raise issues about the independence of a director are set out below. Where a director falls within one or more of these examples, the Board should rule the director not to be independent unless it is clear that the interest, position or relationship in question is not material and will not interfere with the director's capacity to bring an independent judgment to bear on issues before the Board and to act in the best interests of the Company as a whole rather than in the interests of an individual security holder or other party:

- (a) is, or has been, employed in an executive capacity by the Company or any of its child entities and there has not been a period of at least three years between ceasing such employment and serving on the Board;
- (b) receives performance-based remuneration (including options or performance rights) from, or participates in an employee incentive scheme of the Company;
- (c) is, or has been within the last three years, in a material business relationship (e.g. as a supplier, professional adviser, consultant or customer) with the Company or any of its child entities, or is an officer of, or otherwise associated with, someone with such a relationship;
- (d) is, represents, or is or has been within the last three years an officer or employee of, or a professional adviser to, a substantial holder;
- (e) has close personal ties (these ties may be based on family, friendship or other social or business connections) with any person who falls within any of the categories described above; or
- (f) has been a director of the Company for such a period that his or her independence from management and substantial holders may have been compromised.

In each case, the materiality of the interest, position or relationship needs to be assessed by the Board to determine whether it might interfere, or might reasonably be seen to interfere, with the director's capacity to bring an independent judgment to bear on issues before the Board and to act in the best interests of the Company as a whole rather than in the interests of an individual security holder or other party.

The mere fact that a director has served on the Board for a substantial period of time does not mean that he or she has become too close to management or a substantial holder to be considered independent. However, as part of its assessment of independence, the Board will regularly assess whether that might be the case for any director who has served in that position for more than 10 years.
